In December 2011 eight women launched legal action against the Metropolitan Police for the harm caused by undercover officers deceiving them into long term intimate relationships. Since then, more than fifty women have been found to have been subject to the same human rights violations.

WHERE ARE THE #SPYCOPS NOW?

Our campaign seeks to highlight and prevent the continuation of psychological, emotional and sexual abuse of campaigners and others by undercover police.

For at least 5 decades, undercover officers have infiltrated progressive political groups. They have lied to women, lied to the public, and now some have lied to the public inquiry. This inquiry is about an assault on British democracy. Without public pressure, the police can simply get away with it. No-one will be held accountable and perpetrators are protected. Don't let this happen. Support our campaign and spread the word.

Met Police - Stop Protecting Spycops. It's time for transparency and truth.
